Carlisle Countians Spend Week in Tornado Ravaged West Liberty, Kentucky

Buildings in West Liberty were reduced to rubble

The Morgan County Courthouse that was in the process of construction will have to start back at square one now

The tornadoes that hit West Liberty, Kentucky left a scene of pure devastation as the tornado that hit the town on March 2, 2012 left six people dead and over 30 people missing initially after the storm. Over 3,000 homes were affected: 281 totally destroyed; 116 receiving major damage and receiving minor damage.

As a result of the destruction, Kentucky Emergency Management deployed an Incident Management Team from Western Kentucky consisting of County Emergency Directors, Regional Director and members of the American

Amongst those dispatched were Carlisle County Emergency Services Director Missy Rowland and Ballard County Emergency Services Director, and Carlisle County native Anita Bugg.

Both ladies had the opportunity to work for a week helping out with emergency services in the undermanned and destroyed area.

When speaking with the Carlisle Weekly Rowland said that in the county of Magoffin she is not sure if the county will ever be the same. "Total destruction, it will take years for them to recover, if they ever do recover," Rowland said.

Rowland was stationed in the Moreland Armory as part of the Regional Emergency Coordination Center (RECC). While at the RECC she fielded calls and worked with a new computer system that state emergency officials are using in the event of a disaster.

In the past the sole responsibility of communicating the needs of the county or area in a disaster fell upon the emergency director's shoulders. Now local government officials can link to the computer system and upload those needs and the emergency directors can log on as well and check and see if those needs are met.

On the Friday before Rowland was due to leave she had the opportunity to drive into West Liberty and see if for the first time. "I drove over a hill and what was supposed to be West Liberty, Kentucky, was simply a pile of rubble. It was numbing," Rowland said.

Anita Bugg also passed along her accounts of the scene, as she received an up close view of the terror. Here is Anita's account:

Outbuildings were blown away like match sticks and personal property and paper- work by the hundreds were scattered across the countryside. One lady's bible was recovered in West Virginia while a cancelled check from another home was found there also. Driving through the town of West Liberty you notice the remnants of churches, banks, monuments and homes. The hospital lost its roof and ran out of the ER only for days. Patients who were in the hospital at the time were moved to the ground floor of the facility and no one was injured. Many residents were caught in the rubble and had to be rescued. Gasoline pumps were stripped of their covers and hoses. Glass was blown out of buildings and trees were uprooted and pushed through mobile homes. Again, it is almost impossible to comprehend what you see when driving through this town.

The Carlisle Weekly asked Missy Rowland what was the main thing that she learned from this experience and this was what she had to say. "Frankfort is four hours away from us in Carlisle County. My experiences in West Liberty, Kentucky showed me that Carlisle Countians need to be prepared and have an emergency kit prepared with plenty of water and supplies because in the event of an emergency, the government will do all they can to get to us and get us the help they need. However, with them being three or four hours away it could take a week before your family could receive help, so please, work to have a plan of action and a kit ready," Rowland said.

You can visit www.ready.gov to learn how to assemble a kit and if you would like to donate to tornado relief efforts you can donate to the American Red Cross.

on September 24th, 2011. Moore later died as a result of his injuries. Kentucky State Police investigators have since been conducting a murder investigation. On Thursday, March 15th, state police investigators gave testimony regarding their investigation to a Hickman County Grand Jury.

The Grand Jury indicted three men for their role in the murder. Twenty-year-old Kendrick Hunt, 25-year-old Jeremy Irons, and 26-year-old Connel Mounday, were each arrested Thursday and charged with Capital Murder, Capital Kidnapping, and Robbery 1st Degree. Hunt and Iron, both of Clinton, were lodged in the Hickman County Detention Center. Mounday, a Paducah resident, was lodged in the McCracken County Detention Center.

The investigation continues by Detective Kyle Nall with the Kentucky State Police. The Hickman County Sheriff's Office and the Clinton Police Department assisted state police.

Batting Cages for Sports League Only the Beginning For Future Park Improvements

The new batting cages will be on the concrete pad that it will share with half of the basketball court at the park

By Michael Toon
Carlisle Weekly

The Carlisle County sports complex at the fairgrounds has taken on a new look recently, with the construction of a new batting cage on the basketball court.

One half of the basketball court will be available for hoops, as always. However, on the other end of the court, the concrete slab will be used as the foundation for the new batting cages.

Korie Bowles of the Carlisle County Sports League told the Carlisle Weekly that thanks to cooperation from the Carlisle County Fiscal Court this was able to be possible, and for that the sports league and the kids who participate in the sports league each year are grateful. Bowles said that the cages will be for use with the sports league's pitching machine at first, but in the future he envisions a coin operated batting machine for the public to be able to use at their recreation.

The Carlisle County Fiscal Court made the purchase of this new batting cage possible through a grant received via the Purchase Area Development District (PADD) and their annual Area Development Funds (ADF) that they give to counties each year.

Carlisle County Judge Executive Greg Terry stressed to the Carlisle Weekly that this batting cage was important because it will become one of the first few moves the county is planning on making to attract tourism to the county park. "We are currently looking into trail system grants and making it possible for tourists to camp overnight at the Carlisle County Park and use these facilities in our trail systems," Terry said. Terry said that the development of the park will open doors for additional grant funding in the future, while in the meantime provide additional attractions to the park.

Carlisle County Judge Executive Terry also said that in the future the fiscal court will be looking into acquiring land to expand the park as well.

Farmers Get Last Chance to Put Their School District First Deadline Approaching for $10,000 or $25,000 Grant Opportunities

ST. LOUIS (March 15, 2012) – With rural schools feeling the pinch of tightening budgets, now is the time for farmers to support their school district through America’s Farmers Grow Rural Education . Sponsored by the Monsanto Fund, the program gives farmers the opportunity to nominate their public school district to compete for a grant of $10,000 or $25,000 to support a science and/or math educational program.

“The deadline to nominate your school district is April 15, so act now before you head back into the field,” said Monsanto Fund President Deborah Patterson. “A $25,000 grant can make a big difference in school districts that support small farming towns. The nomination process is quick, easy and can be completed at GrowRuralEducation.com.”

This past fall, Olympia Community School District in McLean County, Ill., was one of 16 school districts to receive a grant through the America’s Farmers Grow Rural Education pilot. The school created the Growing Our Own Vegetable program with the $25,000 grant they received this past fall. The Olympia students are now able to grow vegetables in their greenhouse to study in science class and, ultimately, to be used in the school’s cafeteria.

“The Growing Our Own Vegetable program is something we’ve wanted to do for years, and we finally got the opportunity, thanks to the Monsanto Fund and America’s Farmers Grow Rural Education,” said Brad Hutchinson, superintendent of Olympia CUSD. “We now have the resources to continue providing the very best education to our students.”

Farmers can nominate their local school district by visiting GrowRuralEducation.com until April 15, 2012.

Through America’s Farmers Grow Rural Education: Farmers in 1,245 eligible counties can nominate their local public school districts to apply for a $10,000 or $25,000 grant.

The Monsanto Fund will award 199 grants this year. There will be 177 $10,000 grants and 22 grants of $25,000 awarded.

The Monsanto Fund will invest more than $2.3 million to school districts in 39 states this year.

America’s Farmers Grow Rural Education is part of a broad commitment by the Monsanto Fund to highlight the important contributions farmers make every day to our society by helping them grow academic opportunities for their youth. Visit GrowRuralEducation.com for additional information.

ONE PRESSON’S VIEW

By Kay Presson

My generation, known as "Baby Boomers," grew up with our parents using home remedies for ailments. One of my Mama's favorite standbys was good ole Vick's Salve. When any one of us six kids had a cold, Mama would bring out the Vick's Salve. It would be rubbed on our chest, behind our ears, and on the bottom of our feet. And, it worked!

At the last Bardwell City Council Meeting, I was struck with a painful "charley horse" in my left leg. I endured it as long as possible and finally had to excuse myself and hobble over to the kitchen area to find some salt. Yep, folks, plain old table salt will stop a charley horse within a few minutes. However, I couldn't get the lid off, and thanks to Michael Toon, who came to my rescue and removed the lid. All it took was a few grains, which I sprinkled in my hand and placed on the end of my tongue, and the pain disappeared.

A few days later, another charley horse hit me about 1:30 am, waking me in terrible pain. Hobbling into my kitchen, I got the old faithful salt shaker and partook of the remedy...whew! I hobbled back to my bed with the salt shaker in my hand and went back to sleep. Folks, that salt shaker sets right next to my alarm clock. I would like to thank one of my co-workers at Hancock’s of Paducah, who told me of this remedy, 'cause it definitely works.

Another home remedy I have discovered to stop a migraine in its tracks is to consume chocolate when a migraine hits. Everyone has a pain now and then, and these home remedies definitely work.

Senator Ken Winters’ Frankfort Report

FRANKFORT – While we passed several important bills this week, my time was dominated with review of the House’s proposal, House Bill 265, for the state’s two-year budget. The plan will be roughly $9 billion per year or $18 billion total. In that, the Senate proposal carries about 6.58% authorized debt which is lower than the House’s proposal of 6.8% and even lower than the Governor’s proposal of 7.1%. The Senate’s budget puts more money into the Rainy Day Fund and significantly lowers the state’s structural imbalance. The Senate recognizes that it is bad public policy to bond or restructure or borrow money to pay for current expenses. The Senate crafted a financially responsible budget that reflects what every family in the Commonwealth has had to face during the last several years – less money. We needed to decide what was necessary as opposed to what would be nice to have. People decide between paying their mortgage or going on vacation, paying their utility bill or going to the movies. While the Senate budget provides for social services, education, public safety, and necessary infrastructure, we are mindful that we cannot afford some things that, while nice or even beneficial to have, are not ultimately critical. Of course, as the nation’s and our economies improve, we will continue to evaluate and review our revenues as compared to our needs.

The Senate passed Senate Bill 134 which would facilitate returning military who have a HVAC specialty to obtain certification in Kentucky. SB 134 allows a current or former member of the United States Armed Forces to qualify for a journeyman license if he or she has been trained as a journeyman by the military and actively served in that occupation during his or her military service. We are grateful to the men and women who serve and it is not just to make their transition back to civilian life more difficult.

The Senate also passed several other bills to lay the groundwork for a prosperous future. If you ask business-owners what kinds of things the government can do to help them, one of their top answers will be to tell government to get out of the way. Senate Bill 4 applies a moratorium on administrative regulations as the Governor determines which regulations to keep in place, amended, or repealed altogether. The Governor can then reissue the regulations he deems important and these will go through the usual legislative review. The purpose of SB 4 is to rein in what many feel is out-of-control red-tape. We need to look at these regulations with fresh eyes and make sure they still have a constructive purpose.

By now, it is common knowledge that math and science skills are important to students as they prepare for either a vocational track or college and future jobs. Senate Bill 11, which I sponsored, will provide financial incentives to teachers, based on student achievement on Advanced Placement (AP) or International Baccalaureate (IB) tests in advanced science and mathematics. AdvanceKentucky, a private-public educational partnership, has similar programs in many of our public high schools and has experienced wonderful success as students score well enough to obtain college credit, saving both them and their parents’ money. In 2010, AdvanceKentucky high schools represented a 53% increase in math/science/English AP qualifying scores (3 or above) above 2009. Qualifying scores among low-income students went up 109%. This is an investment in our future.

We also must continue to be conservative and frugal with the state funds (your tax-dollars) we do have. Senate Bill 118 will require all applicants for public benefits to either present a legitimate document verifying United States citizenship or submitting an affidavit verifying legal residency here. These are your tax funds, and you should have the assurance that they benefit U.S. citizens.

Finally, the Senate passed another bill I sponsored, Senate Bill 213, which provides transitional living support for young people who have aged out of the foster care system but still feel that they need a support system. A youth may choose, before they are 19, to extend or reinstate his or her commitment to the Cabinet of Health and Family Services to the age of 21. This means that the children will continue to be eligible for educational, residential, and psychological support to help ensure they will grow into productive members of society.

Next week, we will be entering in a conference committee with the House to hammer out differences in our budget proposals. The Senate will also be voting on the state’s road plan.

There is still time to call me with any questions or concerns about pending legislation. I can be reached toll-free at 1-800-372-7181. We are on the World Wide Web at www.lrc.ky.gov.

This week's inspiration

This week's inspiration from guest speaker Rev. Gregory Wal-drop: Nicodemus was full of questions. With each answer Jesus gave him, he had another deeper question. Some of our questions don't have easy answers and sometimes are overwhelming. Questioning is an important element of faith. It doesn't show a lack of faith or trust and can actually bring us closer to God. As Christians, we should always be willing to ask questions. According to Job, answers don't come before we live the question deeply. Today ask yourself, who do I know that needs to know how much God loves them? Are you willing to share the good news that God sent His Son Jesus not to condemn the world but to save it?

Open hearts. Open minds. Open doors.

Bardwell Utilizes Workforce Investment Programs

By Michael Toon
Carlisle Weekly

The newly renovated Bardwell City Park entrance and repairs to Truman Creek in Bardwell are two examples of how the City of Bardwell has taken advantage of the Workforce Investment Act and grants that are available for such projects.

The Purchase Area Development District (PADD) administers the Workforce Investment Act (WIA) programs in the Purchase under the direction of the West Kentucky Workforce Investment Board (WKWIB) which serves the seventeen counties of the Purchase and Pennyrile Areas.

Since the Ice Storm of 2009, Carlisle County and the City of Bardwell have taken full advantage of the programs that the WKWIB offers.

The City of Bardwell has used the WIA multiple times. Once in 2009 during the previously mentioned ice storm and again in 2010-11 during project H2O, during the flooding. The City of Bardwell has also worked with the Adult Education Center on Front Street and the WKWIB in their GED program. Those who qualify can get their GED and work for 500 hours for the city at ten dollars an hour.

According to Bardwell Mayor Philip King those jobs created adds up. “During the 2009 Ice Storm we used 12 total workers during project ice and created $173,000 in payroll, recently during Project H2O we employed five workers, adding $54,000 in payroll, and now with the GED program we are adding another $5,000 in payroll, all at no cost to the city,” Mayor King said.

King said that the employees from these projects have been provided training and equipment free of charge, and have helped those who have participated in the program move on to permanent employment with other companies due to their experience with the city.

Mayor King also said that with the nearly quarter of a million dollars in payroll that was dispersed, that money stayed locally and was infused into the local economy of Carlisle County, and that was one of the most important aspects.

Since 2010, the WKWIB has provided services to 1350 customers in the Purchase Region; invested $2,505,085 in post-secondary training for 633 customers; provided training and work experience to 120 low-income youth; hired 126 dislocated workers for National Emergency Grant: Project Ice and hired 220 youth to work in the ARRA Summer Works program.

Bardwell Mayor Philip King said that the City of Bardwell will continue to utilize these programs and grants in the future. “With the way our city budget is these programs and grants are a lifesaver for the city. We are able to conduct city beautification projects, such as the Bardwell City Park and repairs such as those at Truman Creek at little to no cost to the city,” King said.

Junk Cars Could Mean a Tax Deduction

March, 2012 - The economy is showing signs of recovery even with the rising cost of gas. Many people who held on to their car during the recession are now looking to replace it with a more fuel efficient one.

If you are one of those people, you have to figure out what to do with your car. If your vehicle does not get good gas mileage, has a lot of miles, is more than 5 years old or is not in good condition, the dealership won’t offer you much for it as a trade in. They won’t want it because there is no demand for it. It will be difficult to sell it privately for the same reason.

One alternative is to sell it for a couple of hundred dollars to a junk yard. A better alternative is to donate your car to charity. Cars4Charities will gladly take your old car, no matter what shape it is in. In return for your generosity, you will get a tax deduction of $500 or more. They have hundreds of charities that can be helped by your car donation. For details, please go to <http://www.cars4charities.org/> or call 866.448.3487.

Community Members for the Local Planning Committee

The Carlisle County Board of Education is seeking 2 community members willing to serve on the Local Planning Committee (LPC). The LPC works with the architect and facilitator to develop a facility plan proposal for the Carlisle County Schools. The facility plan is utilized as a funding instrument by the state and the guidelines for future construction projects become available.

Please send a letter of commitment to Keith Shoulders, Carlisle County Schools, 4557 SR 1377, Bardwell, KY 42023 if interested. Community members cannot be school employees and are residents of Carlisle County. Letters should arrive by April 10, 2012. Call Dr. Shoulders at 270-638-3800 for further information.

First Ever Truth and Consequences Event Held at School

Carlisle County Circuit Judge Tim Langford and Jeremiah McCarty speak with Landan Black about the consequences he faces

The Carlisle County Cooperative Extension Service in collaboration with the Carlisle County School System, the Carlisle County Agency for Substance Abuse Policy, the Family Resource and Youth Services Center, the Purchase District Health Department, Four Rivers Behavioral Health, the Carlisle County 4-H Council and the Carlisle County Extension Homemakers Council hosted the first ever Truth and Consequences: The Choice Is Yours event on Friday, March 23 for eighth and ninth graders.

This event is a substance abuse prevention activity designed to show students the impact of substance abuse on their lives. It involves role playing scenarios where students accompanied by a parent or an adult volunteer playing the role of parent visits a variety of agencies that the student would have to be involved with in real life should they have behaved in the manner described in the scenario.

The agencies involved in the event included the Michael Hogancamp, County Attorney, Justin Willis, Milner & Orr Funeral Home, Steve Freeman, County Coroner, Kathleen Lucy, Court Designated Social Worker, Donna Birney & Amy Hartsgrrove, Cumberland Hall Treatment

Center in Hopkinsville, Albert Jackson & James Webb, Deputy Jailers, District Judge Keith Myers, Circuit Judge Tim Langford, Brian Jennings, Bethlehem Baptist Youth Pastor, Jamie Von Bokel, Western Baptist Hospital Pharmacist, Jay Simmons & Justin Hubbard, School Administration, Steve Perry, Carlisle County Sheriff, Brian Grogan, School Board, Cindy Shelby, Ellen Walsh, Violet Duncan, & Tandra Winger, Four Rivers Behavioral Health, Cinda Wilson – Carlisle County Health Department, and Dean Patterson and Mike Cook, Kentucky State Police. Brandi Gibson was the featured speaker and Darla Hayden, local volunteer counselor and Sarah Richardson from Four Rivers Behavioral Health coordinated the debriefing room.

“This was a great program”, said Lisa Adams from the Family Resource and Youth Services Center. “I’m glad I was asked to participate.”

Christy Nuetzman, Family & Consumer Sciences Agent in Clinton County, Kentucky was the driving force behind the development program in response to needs in that community. It is now a copyrighted University of Kentucky Family and Consumer Sciences program.

Lane Restriction on US 51/US 60/US 62 Ohio River Bridge at Cairo Starting Tuesday

A contractor for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet plans to restrict traffic to one lane on the US 51 Ohio River Bridge at Cairo starting Tuesday, March 27, 2012.

The lane restriction is to allow several sections of guardrail to be repaired and replaced along the bridge deck. Motorists can expect to encounter one lane traffic with alternating flow controlled by flaggers from approximately 7:30 a.m., CDT, to about 5:30 p.m., each weekday.

Motorists should be alert for equipment, flaggers, and maintenance personnel on the bridge deck in close proximity to traffic flow. Delays should be minimal, generally less than 5 minutes.

This guardrail replacement and repair project is expected to take about a week to complete, weather permitting. We will attempt to provide timely updates as work progresses.

The Wickliffe-Cairo Bridge

carries US 51, US 60, and US 62 traffic across the Ohio River at US 51 Kentucky mile point 7.372.

Also known as The Cairo Bridge, the US 51/US 60/US 62 Wickliffe-Cairo Bridge carries approximately 5,500 vehicles across the Ohio River each day between Wickliffe, KY, and Cairo, IL. It connects with the US 60/US 62 Mississippi River Bridge to Bird’s Point, Missouri, at the southern tip of Illinois.

The US 51 Ohio River Bridge was constructed by the Cairo Bridge Commission as a toll facility and opened to traffic on November 11, 1936. Tolls were removed from the crossing on November 11, 1948, when the highway departments of Kentucky and Illinois took over maintenance of the structure.
